 - C. The unique bridge.
 - D. The Rusinga stars.

Read the passage below and then answer questions 13 to 15.

Nyongesa liked drawing pictures during his free time. At first, his drawings did not look so good. Bunde, a boy in the same class with Nyongesa would laugh and say, “your drawings look like scratches made by a hen.” However, this did not discourage Nyongesa because his class teacher would always tell him that one day he would become a great artist.

With time, Nyongesa’s drawings became better and many people started buying them to decorate their houses. One day, the Governor visited Nyongesa’s school to donate computers. The principal gave the Governor a drawing of a lion as a gift.

“This is marvellous. Whose drawing is this?” Asked the Governor.

“It’s the work of Nyongesa, a boy in Grade 6,” the principal replied.

The Governor gave Nyongesa a wrist watch and four special pens. Nyongesa thanked the Governor. Nyongesa later gave Bunde one pen. This surprised everyone.
